Financial Freedom

While money isn't a solution to every problem, residual income that grows over time certainly provides a degree of flexibility, freedom and security that can ease the load of living expenses, open up lifestyle alternatives and help to fund some luxuries that may not be possible otherwise (eg. new car, longer holidays, home renovations).

Leverage Residual Income

Leveraging and Residual Income provide fantastic benefits, such as:

- ✓ Continue to get paid tomorrow, next month and next year for work you do today.
- ✓ Also get paid for what others do or spend in the future.
- ✓ Get paid whether you go to work, are on holidays, even while you sleep.
- ✓ Consider a retirement plan that's available immediately, rather than wait until age 65.

By doing a few simple things you can secure these lifestyle benefits.

GET PAID a Portion of Network Phone Bills

Everybody has a phone and most people have several (fixed and mobile). Imagine accessing a slice of the revenue earned by the major telecommunications providers. It's such a HUGE amount of revenue that even a small percentage is a lot of money in anyone's language.

National telecommunications carriers earn

BILLIONS OF DOLLARS in revenue every year and

YOU CAN ACCESS A SHARE OF THAT REVENUE

without having to pay for the cost of opening a shopfront, or hiring staff. That has all been done for you.

GLOBAL Expansion and Exposure

Unlike a local retail outlet this business gives you the opportunity to access a percentage of a much broader market. Through the network model you can secure a percentage of the telephone revenue generated by friends and their relatives in many countries, on many continents. Local phone shops don't have such range or scope.

You get access to that global market without even opening a store or an office.

SAVE ON CALLS with your Family & Friends*

The simplest way of providing a benefit to network members and their family is to pass on savings through calling bonuses to other friends and family on the same phone network.

Sharing benefits with friends

Network members get great satisfaction knowing that each member of the network shares in at least some of the benefits rather than all of the revenue flowing to just a few senior executives.

Don't be shy - ask us for details.

Genuine Reasons make a difference.

By accepting the invitation to adopt the telephone network services we can all take satisfaction in the knowledge that we are helping a friend, family member or associates in a way that can make a genuine impact on their lifestyle.

The fact that we can make a saving on our phone bills is an extra bonus with the genuine appreciation of a friend/family member that we are TRULY ASSISTING IN A VERY SIMPLE WAY. We are merely using a service that we already use – the telephone. It really involves very little time or effort to provide an ongoing benefit to our family/friends. It's hard to imagine why anybody would prefer to support a faceless multi-billion dollar business ahead of family or friends.

Our network customers know we are helping a group of friends, who are mostly ordinary families by using and paying for a service that we would otherwise be paying the telephone companies for anyway.

Members of the network are ordinary people who use a share of their customers' bills to help with their family expenses. While big phone companies spend more and more on advertising, the income the network provides can even be left to one's family in a Will if something was to ever happen to them. So it can provide lasting benefits for family members.

PLUS the network opportunity sets a wider group of family and friends on a path where we can all help each other to lighten the financial load somewhat. Although money cannot solve every problem, some extra cash flow can help to put extra funds into the household budgets of regular individuals and families.

Isn't it better that families get some assistance, rather than large companies spending it on their expensive advertising campaigns?

The infrastructure for the services are the same fixed phone lines, wireless and cable networks that many of us already use. So the reliability of the services is the same and the carriers still get a fair percentage of the revenue, while some of the revenue goes to individual families and the billing is handled by a company that promptly answers the phone with LOCAL PEOPLE who talk to you and help you. The customer service team don't transfer you between dozens of departments while you remain on hold for half an hour, or listen to umpteen pre-recorded options and lose you in the system, not knowing which option to choose and eventually transfer to the wrong department anyway. They don't use overseas call centre in distant third world countries like some companies. The company employs people within our borders to provide local services and service support.

The opportunity to reduce one's phone bill is a genuine benefit. Even so, the fact that we can make savings on phone calls is almost incidental to the ability for family and friends to put a few extra dollars into their tightening budget as living expenses continue to increase.

While some people may be "locked in" to contracts via the marketing gimmicks of the large telecommunications companies, each contract will expire someday. The best way to view them is that they represent a future opportunity. Note the contract expiry date and mark that date in your calendar as the day for another opportunity.

Feel free to distribute this leaflet to anyone who you would like to approach or have approached but haven't realised how much a simple gesture of changing phone billing providers can help many friends and family members.
